

CAMBODIA QUESTIONS

September 23, 2016

Welcome, gilded ones. This is Mark.

It is a time of great awakening and it is a time of great joy. Many times when you think about awakening, you think about the losses, the hard times, the changes. One of the things that is awakening now is that humanity is reaching such a level of awareness that you are restructuring joy. It's as if humans have had a very small structure in which to hold joy like holding an ocean in a thimble. Now those of you who are consciousness explorers, we are co-creating a larger structure, a different more dynamic structure for human joy so humans can feel a joy, not just externally, but a deep joy about inner enlightenment and being part of the Cosmos. This journey to Vietnam and Cambodia (Jonette mostly mentions Cambodia) but Vietnam is very important at three levels.

The first level for both of these countries is, as you can imagine, a deep healing of war scars and scars of betrayal where people have been betrayed by their own governments or regimes of their own people. You may find in the first few days that your issues of betrayal, your issues of war and terror come up emotionally; and they may come up just as you're packing. Welcome them so they can be cleansed in the flow of—we'll call it Holy Spirit, the energy of Holy Spirit, Holy Sophia is so riding with you in this journey, the great feminine Holy Spirit. So there will be a cleansing of betrayal, terror, war, loss in both of these countries. That's the first level and a cleansing in you.

The second is an alignment between all of you as light holders and the light-holding capacity of the land and particularly the temples. In some of the temples the energy and the frequencies are still pristine. They may hold a higher energy than the frequencies that you hold. In those cases, the temple energies or the Earth energies in those sacred places or stargates will download into you and upgrade you. In some cases the energies of the temples and the holy places have been broken from their higher frequencies, and your group holds those higher frequencies in harmony. In those cases, you will download and reactivate the temples and the holy places or the places that had been holy. There will be a mutual downloading always to the highest and best of the land to the power place, and, of course, the people associated with it and you and the people associated with you. That's the second level.

The third level is much more cosmic. There is—it's interesting—someone asked about the dragon energies. There is a strong connection between the Draco, the energies of that system and the energies of the Draconian infiltration on Earth in epochs past. There will be a—it's the equivalent of when Jonette activated the Sun Disk in Peru and the Grail in Malta. This will be what you might call a Star Disk or Star Portal, Stargate. The Stargate of Angkor Wat is connected through the center of the Milky Way to the center (Jonette doesn't know the name)—she just sees swirling lights to another great center. It is a place of time travel but the time travel in the portal in Angkor Wat has been—the word might be manipulated or infiltrated so it's not always bringing in the very highest potentials from beyond space, beyond time, and from the greater parts of the Cosmos.

Your group will feel an urge and will know where to go and when to do a cleaning from the human perspective. Obviously, it has to be cleansed and aligned from the higher perspectives but from the human perspective to clean something that has been open from ancient times but has been manipulated and is no longer just a clear pipe way or a pipeline of higher frequency.

So the cosmic work will probably take place three different times. The first two will be by the group. The third one will be diverse in that each of you will find a place, and you will do your own ceremony that is an individual clearing, cleaning and opening. The breakthroughs on this trip will be individual and collective. Emotionally, once the energies of betrayal and war and terror get cleared from you, there will be the imprinting of Sophia or the energies of wisdom. You will walk more clearly in wisdom. Your emotional reactions in many ways, especially as regard to betrayal will be cleansed significantly.

The energies you carry as a group and all your interactions with the local people will be sending healing out at a very human, light, compassionate level. You'll be touched in many places by the presence of Buddha. Many times you'll be in the Buddhist sanctuaries but you will feel the living presence of Buddha and the living presence of Buddha within yourself.

Emotionally, you'll come back clearer, more in wisdom and much more capable of joy. That is our opening answer. What are your questions?

1. What is the purpose of the shiva lingam? What does it activate and connect us too?

The shiva lingam is the energy of creation and Kundalini power. You won't see it so much because it is a Hindu symbol rather than Buddhist. It won't pop up, so to speak, in these temples.

2. This question may not apply anymore then. How was it used in Angkor Wat for priests and priestesses and commoners for spiritual connection and beyond?

We'll say the biggest connection of the shiva lingam is the activation of the Kundalini. As the Kundalini reaches the third eye and the crown chakra, it does activate the higher principles in that human. Jonette will be able to channel when she's on the land some of the more ancient energies and beliefs from well before Hindu or Buddhist. So remember to ask her to ask us about the underlying beliefs before humans as you know it were in that area. It's a very cosmic place.

3: Still the same question. Does it to connect to Lord Shiva or something more deep and cosmic?

Lord Shiva is the Lord of the Cosmos of Creation so Lord Shiva is the metaphor for cosmic. So is it cosmic? Absolutely!

4. You already said this but does it relate to harmonization of kundalini energy between male and female?

Yes.

5. I heard there were 4 shiva lingam that were used in ceremony at the site north of Angkor Wat. Why 4?

All ancient lineages honor what your native people call the Four Directions., the Four Great Ones. Those lingums represented Shiva as the protector of what you would call the Four Directions, the Four Great Ones they would be called then. There are four guardians of Earth from the ancient times. The natives call it the Four Directions but sometimes it's actually seen as guardians. Jonette will know more when she's on that place and holding those energies than in her office in Denver. So those are great questions to ask again when we are at present.

6. The rise and fall of sophisticated, spiritually connected civilizations appears to be related to the rise and fall of divine feminine energy. How can we enhance the resonance and rise of divine feminine energy to complement a harmonious state with masculine energy that is sustainable long term?

The flow of Yin and Yang, the flow of masculine and feminine, their rigidity must be broken and they must flow like the Yin and Yang symbol. That fluidity into feminine, into masculine where they both hold each other is what is sustainable. When both have become polarized, that is not sustainable and neither energizes themselves. It is time where masculine energizes the feminine, and feminine energizes the masculine. It isn't about one being strong or energized. All of the work that is happening now especially after the Equinox and in this birthing of the New Age is about the rebalancing of the feminine so that they can support each other in the way they were meant to.

7. It seems that Angkor Wat was connecting to the divine feminine energy but failed to sustain it. How can we resurrect that energy that was there and keep it going in a balanced way so that it is not cyclical?

The first level that we will all work through is that energy of betrayal, that energy of war and terror, and that's going to do a great deal to unleash the power of the feminine that's always been buried in these temples. You will find that there is connection to Venus in these places. You will feel those connections. The entire trip is about rebalancing and opening (not only the divine masculine and feminine) but as above so below—the cosmic reconnection of Earth. We think that male and female connections are broken—especially is broken Earth's connection to the cosmic field. Much of what you will be doing is helping to reconnect Earth to the cosmic field.

8. Bee was in Angkor Wat before and she was wondering about the stargates in the area.

There are 16 minor stargates in that area and around the area, and some of them are outside of Angkor Wat but the main stargate, the 16 protect the main one—there are 16, then there are 4, so maybe that's the four shiva lingums. The main stargate is in the center but it is multidimensional so you don't have to worry where you find that stargate because the main stargate can be accessed through consciousness. So you absolutely will. That's why you'll be called here. Many of you will feel the sacred geometries as these—even in yourself now, you may feel electricity but it's moving into a geometric pattern through you, a flower of life pattern. You will notice that more and more as you anchor in Angkor Wat.

9. Would you like to say anything about the Dragon energies on this upcoming trip?

There are two aspects of the dragon awakening us. The one aspect you already understand is the Kundalini. But there is a higher aspect of the dragon awakening, and that is the dragon awakening in your pineal gland that moves you beyond duality into absolutely living in the freer, higher frequencies. That dragon energy, as well as the Kundalini dragon energy, will be facilitated when possible in your journey. It's about powerful awakening, and the powerful reenergizing of your cells as if your cells are fused together in a different way that holds a different capacity for electricity. Right now the conductivity of your body is limited to what it is but there is some spiritual awakenings that happen that increase the conductivity of your body so that it's as if your whole body becomes Kundalini and that dragon awakening.

We would also like to speak about the three trips that Jonette has been guided to do where Cambodia is the first one, Australia (especially the center of Australia) is the second, and the third one being Tibet. This particular triangle, though if you look on a map it's not so triangular, is about anchoring timelessness into Earth processes. The Earth has been sidelined from the cosmic brotherhood—it is often a side pool, and humans have forgotten or the vast humans have forgotten the ability to travel in timelessness. These are three power places where timelessness and cosmic connection were remembered and are still remembered by the land in Cambodia and Tibet and in Uluru. There will be much more cosmic openings here, and it's really about reenergizing the Earth as a part of the galactic and cosmic community. It starts with a sense of timelessness. These journeys will be transformational beyond time and space and of great service to humanity because you will be unlocking doors that have waited for a group of conscious travelers to know where the doors are, how to find them, and how to unlock them. It's been waiting for so many thousands of years.

10. Do you have any spiritual preparation tips for everyone?

We ask mostly that you are grounded in yourself, not spending too much time spinning around in your head, and emotionally forgiven where when you arrive on this trip, you have forgiven yourself of much of the baggage you've carried around in an unforgiven, sometimes unclaimed and unforgiven way. Claim your faults. Claim your sins. Call them out. Notice them and then forgive them so that you are clean enough to be fully anchored and fully present.

So—anchored, clear, happy. There will be so much more that we will know when we get there. Many of you will find that you're already traveling there in your dreams. You may not remember your dreams but you'll know you've been somewhere. There's a lot of multidimensional preparation that's taking place already for all of you, and you may be meeting dragons.
